"The event was lovely last night. Several people were emotional watching the performance and hearing the backstory. I think we all needed the experience, and I love love love that you initiated this program. Thank you so much."

- Janae Pulliam about the Izola Collins program

"So much to do and see. Rosenberg has become part of our routine and life. Thank you for all you do!"

- Travis Ceccacci

COMMENTS FROM LIBRARY GUESTS

"It's awesome to have a library like Rosenberg Library in our community!"
- Christopher Smith Gonzalez

"My family loves this place and enjoys wonderful programs all the time. Best place at Galveston!" - Pooja A. Kumar

"From all the special events, storytime to the summer reading program, we love Rosenberg Library. It has really fostered a love of reading for my guys."
- Erin Ceccacci

Daralyn Skurlock De Perez regularly comes to the library and brings her two daughters. She recently looked for materials on coral reefs as her youngest daughter Kinley, age 5, is researching the topic. This research project was inspired by the Rosenberg Library gifting her the book Coral Reefs by Jason Chin during his author/illustrator visit.

The Rosenberg Library Museum and the Galveston and Texas History Center hosted a special program called "Galveston Survives" honoring the late Izola Collins and the symphony she composed to commemorate the 1900 Storm and Galveston's remarkable resilience over time. Pictured: Collins' daughter, June Collins Pulliam, provides insight during the event.

The Texas State Library and Archives Commission selected the Rosenberg Library to be showcased in their Lone Star Libraries series, which highlights exceptional libraries across Texas. Our library was selected because of its importance in the Galveston community, but also because of its unique quality of being home to the Galveston and Texas History Center. The series will be viewable to the public online in September.

Our Children's Department hosted two visits from the Collaborative for Children's Collab-Lab - a mobile lab that connects parents and their youngest children with experts, educators, resources, and proven programs to make sure they have essential learning skills.
